This Newspaper clipping came in the Letter of November 20, 1975 on the following page

HONORED BY WOMEN'S CLUBS

'Family Of The Year' Has 12 Children

One of the qualifications for the "San Diego Family of the Year," as outlined by the sponsor of the search, the San Diego District of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, was that the family should have at least one teenager.

But the award-winning family, that of Mr. and Mrs. C. Jordan Naylor, not only has five teenagers at present, but has two who were teenagers and has at least five others who will be teenagers.

The words "at least" are used because Mrs. Naylor is expecting a child next April.

The Naylors and two children, Carol Lynn, 14, and Thomas Ward, 16, were introduced yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the Scottish Rite Masonic Temple by Mrs. Sayre S. Williams, district family living chairman.

ADOPTED CHILDREN

Three of the 12 Naylor children are adopted, said Mrs. Williams. Their mother had been Mrs. Naylor's sister; their father had been Mr. Naylor's brother. The children were orphaned three years ago and taken into the Naylor home in University City.

Naylor has been an FBI agent for more than 25 years, 15 of them in San Diego. He and his wife are active members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The Naylor children are Cindy, 23, a student at Brigham Young University; Scott Jordan, 21, a missionary in Japan; Sherri Lynn, 19, a student at Brigham Young University; Mark David, and Cathleen Ann, both 18 and students at Dixie College, St. George, Utah; Thomas Ward, 16, a student at Clairemont High School; Carol Lynn, 14, and Nancy Lee, 12, students at Einstein Junior High School; Joseph Terry, 10, and Paul Layton, 8, students at Spreckels Elementary School, and Kenneth Ernest, 4, and Christopher Jay, 2.

Mrs. Williams, in presenting the award, cited the family's respect for law and order, church attendance, principles of honesty and industry, and mutual love and respect.

EXAMPLE OF VIRTUES

"We feel that this family is a unique example of the traditional and fundamental virtues of family living," said Mrs. Williams.

"The qualities which earned them the title are the leadership capabilities demonstrated by the parents, the moral and religious strengths exemplified by all the members, and the love and concern shown for each other and for others outside the family."

The Naylors have been temporary foster parents for several teenagers who stayed with them until able to reconcile their differences with their own parents, Mrs. Williams said.

All the children work, when they reach the minimum age, to pay for expenses in high school and college, and all are encouraged to participate in scouting, athletics and cultural activities, and to develop their particular talents, said the chairman.

—Staff Photo by Jerry W

Mr. and Mrs. C. Jordan Naylor, their daughter Carol Lynn and their son Thomas Ward arrive at the Scottish Rite Temple to receive the "Family of the Year" award from the San Diego District, California Federation of Women's Clubs. Family unity and love were criteria.